Sunday Service 10:30 AM - July 24, 2016 - "Awe, Wonder, Love: Stories from the Field" - David Arfa, Maggid, Pulpit Guest and Sue Smolski, Worship Associate. - We'll begin with the creation of the world, move into the birth of love and end inside a butterfly migration. Through it all we'll explore Judaism's vibrant and diverse storytelling heritage and the unique ways story is able to carry awe, wonder and love from heart to heart.

Source: Jewish and Christian teachings which call us to respond to God's love by loving our neighbors as ourselves;

David Arfa is a Maggid (Jewish storyteller) and an environmental activist who seeks to find ways to connect the power of stories with listener's emotional and spiritual lives.

“To Sauna or Not to Sauna”: Location of Summer Services

At the beginning of the summer, our plan was to worship in the sanctuary when weather allowed and to worship in the chapel when air-conditioning was necessary. The unknown factor was the pattern of attendance for this summer, given our growing congregation. It is a week by week decision; comfort and common sense are my guide posts.

The attendance for our last two services was 99 and 86...which is awesome...one held comfortably in the sanctuary and last Sunday's service held in Fellowship Hall, our other air-conditioned space that comfortably seats the number of people who have been attending.

Worshiping in Fellowship Hall requires even more organizational cooperation to create a workable space for worship. Ushers and greeters adapting to the change; others transforming the space for worship and returning it to baseline for other activities of the church... it has been wonderful and greatly appreciated.

Heads up---Next week, we will worship in Fellowship Hall...hopefully, with a center aisle. - Sue Smolski, Worship Associate Coordinator

September 18, 2016, 10:30am: "I Am One Thing. I Am Many Things. I Am Water. This is my dance through our world."

--Thomas Locker.

Join our Revs., Heather and Cathy, for our Annual Ingathering and Water Ceremony Service.

Remember to gather some water representing your summertime reflections and refreshments, whether they be at your own sink, a nearby park, or someplace far away, symbolic, or particularly meaningful. What's important about this service is our returning to be with one another again after summer breaks from routine, and our sharing with one another about how our spirit has been touched and nourished. Join us. All are welcome. Image: www.stevenwubbleski.com

Summer Worship & Religious Education: Six Sources Summer
Worship and Religious Education will continue every Sunday at 10:30am.

Our summer is organized around the Six Sources of our faith (a companion to the 7 Principles). As UUs, we draw inspiration for our faith not just from one sacred text, but from direct experience, prophetic justice seekers, various world religions, Christian & Jewish teachings, humanist teachings, earth-centered traditions, and more. We have an incredible line up of guest speakers, including our kids, our young adults, our crones, and a few terrific guests (an atheist chaplain, a Jewish storyteller, and a Shin Buddhist teacher). Meanwhile, our children will be exploring the sources through interactive activities and play in the garden. Pi-Hsun Shih will be our Summer Accompanist. If you're in town, you won't want to miss these Sundays!

What are the Sources?

Here is the text about our sources. You can also find this in your Order of Service and at the front of the hymnal.

Unitarian Universalism (UU) draws from many sources:

- * Direct experience of that transcending mystery and wonder, affirmed in all cultures, which moves us to a renewal of the spirit and an openness to the forces which create and uphold life;
- * Words and deeds of prophetic women and men which challenge us to confront powers and structures of evil with justice, compassion, and the transforming power of love;
- * Wisdom from the world's religions which inspires us in our ethical and spiritual life;
- * Jewish and Christian teachings which call us to respond to God's love by loving our neighbors as ourselves;
- * Humanist teachings which counsel us to heed the guidance of reason and the results of science, and warn us against idolatries of the mind and spirit.
- * Spiritual teachings of earth-centered traditions which celebrate the sacred circle of life and instruct us to live in harmony with the rhythms of nature.

These principles and sources of faith are the backbone of our religious community.

Revering Mother Nature - Pulpit Guest Marye Gail Harrison gave us so much to ponder during her sermon at the Meeting House on July 17, 2016, that we were glad it took place downstairs in our (relatively) cool and air-conditioned Fellowship Hall. Her topic was the sixth Source UUs affirm: Spiritual teachings of Earth-centered traditions that celebrate the sacred circle of life and instruct us to live in harmony with the rhythms of nature. I was not aware that our core UU structure of Principles and Sources was not adopted until 1984, except, as Marye Gail explained, “for the source we are reflecting on today,” which was adopted in 1995.

The well-constructed sermon included musings on (1) The Women’s Movement (2) Earth based spiritual traditions (3 Outer space and (4) The environment. Whew!

The Women’s Movement. Marye Gail was not only a member of the Manchester Universalist Society: East for about 25 years, but also, in the early 70’s was chosen President elect—the church’s first woman in that level leadership role. “Desperately tired of running pot luck suppers, RE programs and fund raisers,” she attributes her election and involvement in the Women’s Movement being about “women claiming our full human capacities and contributing as equals with men...This movement happened in my coming of age as an adult woman.”

Earth based spiritual traditions. Coming to the USH in the late 1980’s, Marye Gail joined “Rise Up and Call Her Name,” a UU curricula about Earth based spiritual traditions around the world. She learned “We were goddesses; we embodied the divine life force. We moved beyond the 'Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man' that had grounded the UU traditions for centuries."

Not many of us would say, as Marye Gail did, "I could hardly wait to turn 55 in 1996 so I could create my own Croning ceremony...I wanted to re imagine an engaged older woman, full of life past family roles." She emphasized how difficult it is for women to "reclaim themselves from the dehumanizing commercial propaganda about womanhood over age 40."

Outer Space. Marye Gail turned 60 in 2001 and "fell in love with outer space," turning images from the Hubble Space Telescope into paintings on canvas (many of us have enjoyed them). "My resurrection story now" is the product of one single huge super nova star explosion and death. My gratitude for being alive "is at the heart of the source we are exploring this morning." she said.

Environment/Green Sanctuary. Some of the USH's Green Sanctuary folk attended a workshop run by Joanna Macy, based on her book "The Work that Reconnects." Macy, an environmental activist, Buddhist scholar, mother and teacher, offers an approach related to Earth Centered spiritual traditions. Her "interconnecting four successive stages that feed into each other" are opening to gratitude, owning our pain for the world, seeing with new eyes, and going forth. Gratitude involves staying in touch with what you are grateful for. Clarity of mind for reality comes when we are truly present and experiencing our pain. Grounded presence allows us to see with new eyes and to learn more about the issues causing the pain. A quote from Helen Keller was the answer to going forth: "...Because I cannot do everything I will not refuse to do the something that I can do,"

Marye Gail gave examples of how the USH Green Sanctuary is "already on board with her (Macy's) very participative approach" to struggling to live more in harmony and to do what we can to sustain the environment. This includes our new solar panels, our work in the community garden, our expanded welcome to marginalized people, and our participation in the Black Lives Matter movement.

More good stuff. I am constantly in awe about the creativity it takes to produce our USH services whose words and music create a seamless whole. As one of our wonderful Worship Associates, Rick Tsukada's words of welcome and introduction to the Offering (He sees the weekly offering as a "direct reflection of my life force") were smooth and gracious.

Sunday's music introduced us to The Meeting House Folk, a terrific trio of Stephanie Briggs and Patrice Fitzgerald, voice; and Sarah McKenzie, voice plus guitar. They will be singing during the service at the Universalist Church of West Hartford on August 7. Their voices during an anthem and the Offering were beautiful.

"One Voice" was the anthem: This is the sound of one voice...
 This is the sound of voices two...
 This is the sound of voices three...
 This is the sound of one voice
 One people, one voice
 A song for every one of us.
 During the Offering, they sang the plaintive folk song "Wild Mountain Thyme: O the summer time has come
 And the trees are sweetly bloomin'
 And the wild mountain thyme
 Grows around the bloomin' heather
 Will ye go
 Lassie, go?

1. Our first meeting will be on Thursday, September 8, in David's Den at the church.

2. Please read Mothering Sunday, the latest Graham Swift novel.

He is a Booker Prize winner; you will see why. It is short but full of discussion themes.

3. After our first meeting, continuing past practice, meetings will be on the first Thursday of the month and generally in members' homes. For books selected by the Ministers, we will meet at church. We will skip January to give everyone time for the holidays and have our last meeting in June.

4. For next year's book selections, please email me your suggestions by JULY 30, so that I can share them with you and then arrive at a list for the year.

5. I am asking Janice Newton to create a process at the program table so that individuals interested in participating can sign up by paying the normal $5 fee for church programs.

A review of Mothering Sunday:

“There never was a day like this, nor ever would or could be again.” The day in question is Mothering Day, the day that servants were allowed off to visit their families. It is also the last time that Jane Fairchild, a servant girl, and Paul Sheringham, an upper-class neighbor, will meet for their tryst before he “marries up” and moves to London.

The day – a perfect sunny March day that feels more like June – will start off languidly and sensually yet will take surprising turns. The initial pace is unhurried, as we play voyeur to Jane and Paul who enjoy their lusty coital time together; after his departure, Jane is left to wander around in an unhurried manner in his wake. Gradually, as the novella reveals its intentions, we discover nuggets about Jane’s past and her future as a well-respected novelist.

There, too, the theme is profound self-discovery, leading to a career as a writer. And there as well, the focus is on how we remember and convey truths and how fiction can be used to get to “the heart, the nub, the pith: the trade of truth-telling” and what it means to be true to the “very feel of being alive.”

Upcoming Special Events and Other News

At the end of June, our Society began a new program for sharing our continually growing gifts of food and healthcare items with our community.

All of our shared gifts in both of the boxes will be picked up on the last Thursday of each month. Volunteers from the Horace Bushnell Food Pantry church now have a large van with which they shall pick up donations from many sites the same day each month.

Thanks again for all you, your family and friends continue to share! That's the true pleasure of giving: receiving so much good spirit from the energy all around us. - Submitted by Deb Meny Image: emersonuuc.org

Seeking Chalice Lighters!

Lighting the chalice on Sunday morning as an individual, a couple or a family is a way for you to take a small part in our shared worship service. It's also a way for all of us to see each other more fully and help everyone remember names more easily. Thanks for signing up to engage in this especially Unitarian Universalist ritual that begins our services.

If you haven't lit the chalice before, please plan to arrive by 10:10am so we can show you the routine before the service begins.
